Scope and arrangement

Scope of the list

The content of this listing is limited to published or publicly available items, including books, pamphlets, journal articles and websites. Newspaper items are included where they contain substantial information which appears not to be easily available elsewhere.

Arrangement of the list

Items are listed in the following categories;

1. Diocese (general histories)
2. Diocesan agencies (e.g. schools and other organisations)
3. Biographies of clergy and lay individuals
4. Parishes and ministry units and their churches (arranged by the current parish name).

Access to items listed

Many of the books, pamphlets, journal articles and other items listed here are available at the National Library of Australia (NLA), St Mark's National Theological Centre Library in Canberra, or the ACT Heritage Library.

The Anglican Historical Society has, of course, copies of its own publications, including the Anglican Historical Society Journal, Deep and lasting foundations and Unsung heroines, and is able to provide copies of articles or extracts from these. A set of Anglican News from 2003 to date is also held in digital form.

The National Library's Trove service is a great source, especially of older newspaper articles.

The location of audio items in this list is given with each entry.

The Society holds copies or has details of other items of an unpublished or minor nature not listed here.

Other sources of information

The Society maintains a set of databases with extensive information about:

- clergy who have served in the Diocese,
- churches in the Diocese (including those which no longer exist), and
- changes to parishes which constitute or have constituted the Diocese.

An extensive chronology of the Diocese has been compiled and is maintained.

The Society maintains an electronic archive of photos and images of clergy, churches and events, currently containing over 4,000 images.

Parish archives

Much historical information is held in parish archives, which are not included here. It is the policy of the Diocese that parishes forward completed baptism, marriage, burial and service registers and parish minute books to the Diocesan Registry office for placement with the Diocesan Collection held in the National Library of Australia. There are over 2000 items held in the Diocesan Collection at the NLA in optimum conditions for archival preservation. The earliest registers date from 1838. Access to the collection is determined by the Registrar of the Diocese (not by the NLA).

The Diocese holds the copyright of all microfilmed registers. Microfilmed registers are on open access up to 1920. For privacy reasons, records after 1920 are closed and are not available for public access. Requests for information from Registers after 1920 should be made in writing to the Diocesan Registrar (see details below).

The Diocese provides a research service for those seeking parish archival information and family history information (i.e. baptisms, confirmations, marriages and burials).

Information is also provided from the Diocesan records for former residents of the Diocesan Children's Homes i.e. St Saviour's in Goulburn, Bungarimbil in Tumbarumba and Birralee in Wagga Wagga. No charge is made for information from Diocesan Children's Home records.

The volunteer research work is carried out by a member of the Anglican Historical Society.

A search fee of $20 is charged for each five year period searched for individual requests. Search fees are paid into the Anglican Historical Society account.

Enquiries should be made in writing and addressed to the Registrar, Diocese of Canberra and Goulburn, GPO Box 1981, Canberra, ACT 2601 or telephone: 02 6245 7101.
